

October 26, 2014

President Barack Obama
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Mr. President

As I write this letter to you I am very aware that you must have more pile of letters to attend later on. So I hope that you may read this letter and hopefully find it somewhat readable.

I currently attend Cardinal Hayes High School and I'm in my senior year in hopes to receive my diploma, and hopefully go to a good college or university to continue my studies and pursue my career. Prior to attending to such a gifted school, I can say that I am very blessed of so many offers that Hayes has given me. Hayes has given me an education that I couldn't have ever asked for anywhere else.

In this letter I'll like to write about my thoughts and opinion about events that happened in your second term of being President. However, first I'll like to congratulate you in so many ways because considering that so many problems that this country has faced you've had to make many hard decisions to ensure our prosperity. Throughout being President of the United States you've dealt with many topics such as the ongoing problem with ISIS. I believe that ISIS is in fact a serious threat to the nation as many attacks are occurring throughout the U.S as those attackers claim to be recent members of ISIS. I strongly agree with your idea of air strikes but at the same time it can be really risky, due to limited information of who actually lives beyond those compounds. Air strikes are efficient but can come with a deadly cost. And I support the idea what's being done about this situation, as in having much law enforcement patrol through many cities that can be a highly possible target.

Another subject that I'll like to address is about the case of the Ebola virus. Many people are getting infected with this deadly virus in Africa and its causing a huge number of death tolls. Many families through these countries are suffering and weeping for their lost one. It would be a helpful solution to create a vaccine and have it shipped to these countries that are in need of it. By doing so it can be a big helpful to these countries. However, I know that it can cost a lot of money doing so, but money can't be an issue to problems such as this.

I would like to extend my many thanks to you for having taken time off to read this letter Mr. President. And we all thank you so much for the many services that you have provided to benefit our country one by one. Thank you !

Sincerely yours truly, Cristian Panora